Court, the officer in charge of the Police Station to which such person is brought shall enquire into the case and may—

- (a) unless the charge is for murder or any other offence which would have been indictable if it were committed by an adult;
- (b) unless it is necessary in the interest of such person to remove him from association with any reputed criminal or prostitute; or
- (c) if there is reason to believe that the release of such person would defeat the ends of justice, release such person on bail in accordance with the Bail Act, subject to a duty to appear before a Magistrate at such time and place as the officer appoints and shall bring the child to the attention of the Authority.

50. Where a person who appears to be under the age of eighteen years is apprehended and is not released in accordance with section 49, the officer in charge of the Police Station to which such person is brought shall notify the Authority forthwith and shall cause him to be placed in a Community Residence until he can be brought before a Court.

51. Where a child has been detained in a Police Station, the Commissioner of Police shall make arrangements for preventing, so far as practicable, the child from associating with an adult charged with or convicted of an offence.

52. (1) A Court, on remanding or committing for trial a child who is not released on bail, shall order that the child be placed in the custody of a Community Residence named in the Order for the period for which he is remanded or until he is brought before the Court.

(2) An order under subsection (1) may be varied to name an alternative Community Residence.

Parent or guardian to attend Court

(3) Subsection (2) shall not apply if the parent or guardian cannot be found.

(4) Where a child is arrested or charged with any offence, or in proceedings referred to in section 48(1) or (2), a summons or warrant may be issued by the Court to enforce the attendance of the parent or guardian for the purpose of—

- (a) enabling such parent or guardian to take part in the proceedings; and
- (b) enabling orders to be made against the parent or guardian in the same manner as if a complaint were made upon which a summons or warrant could be issued against a defendant under the Summary Courts Act.

(5) The parent or guardian required to attend Court proceedings under this section shall be the parent or guardian having the care and control of the child.

(6) The attendance of the parent or guardian of a child in the proceedings of the Court shall not be required under this section in any case where the child was, before the institution of the proceedings, removed from the custody or care and control of his parent or guardian by an order of a Court.

54.(1) Where a child is charged and brought before a Court with an offence, the commission of which attracts a fine, damages, or costs, and the Court is of the opinion that the case would be best met by the imposition of a fine, damages, or costs, whether with or without any other punishment, the Court may, in any case where the offender is a child, order the parent or guardian of the child to pay the fine, damages, or costs awarded unless the Court is satisfied that—

Power of Court to order parent to pay any fine, damages or costs instead of child where a child is charged

- (b) the parent or guardian has not contributed to the commission of the offence by neglecting to exercise due care of the child.

(2) Where a child is charged with any offence, the Court may order his parent or guardian to give security for his good behaviour.

(3) Where the Court finds that a charge against a child is proved, the Court, without proceeding to convict the child, may make—

- (a) an order against the parent or guardian—
 - (i) for the payment of damages or costs; or
 - (ii) requiring him to give security for good behaviour;
- (b) a Recognizance Order in accordance with the Children's Authority Act; or

(5) Any sums, pursuant to this section, which a Court—

- (a) imposes and orders to be paid by a parent or guardian; or
- (b) on forfeiture of any such security referred to in this section, may be recovered from the parent or guardian in like manner as if the order had been made on the conviction of the parent or guardian for the offence with which the child was charged.

Power of the Court to call parent to show cause where a child is convicted

55.(1) Where a child is convicted of an offence and the Court is of the view that the parent or guardian of the child has failed to exercise reasonable care of or supervision over the child to ensure that the child does not commit an offence, the Court may call upon the parent or guardian to show cause why he should not be required to pay a fine in addition to that which is to be paid by the child or for the child by order of the Court and if the parent or guardian fails to show good cause, the Court may order—

- (a) the parent or guardian to pay a fine to the Court;
- (b) the parent or guardian to attend counselling on such terms as the Court may order; and
- (c) with the consent of the parent or guardian, the parent or guardian to enter into a recognizance to take proper care of the child and to exercise proper supervision over the child.

- (g) whether the parent or guardian has sought professional assistance in handling or controlling the child, when necessary;

- (i) psychological or medical disorders, physical or learning disabilities or emotional disturbances of the parent or guardian; and
- (j) any other matter that the Court considers relevant to its determination.

(3) Where a parent or guardian refuses to enter a recognizance and the Court considers the refusal to be unreasonable, that person commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of five thousand dollars.

(4) An order under subsection (1)(c) shall not require the parent or guardian to enter into a recognizance for a period exceeding three years or, where the child will attain eighteen years in a period shorter than three years, for a period not exceeding that shorter period.

(5) In determining the amount to be paid by a parent or guardian under subsection (1), the Court must have regard to the parent's or guardian's capacity to pay the amount, including the effect that any order would have on the parent's capacity to provide for dependants.

Limitation of costs

56.(1) Where a child is ordered by the Court to pay costs in addition to a fine, the amount of the costs so ordered to be paid shall not exceed the amount of the fine.

(2) The Court may order—

- (b) having regard to such information revealed pursuant to subsection (1) it is in the best interest of the child that he be placed in an appropriate Community Residence.

(4) If a custodial sentence is pronounced on a person who was at the time of his sentencing, a child, and the period of that sentence extends beyond the time that the person would have attained the age of eighteen years, the High Court shall, on his attaining the age of eighteen years, review the sentence and may order that—

- (b) the sentence be commuted to time served subject to paragraph (d);
- (c) the sentence be reduced and the remainder of the sentence be served in prison;
- (d) the person be discharged from detention but placed on a bond for a period of time not exceeding fifteen years during which time he attends counselling, on condition that failure to attend and participate in counselling may result in the requirement that he completes the sentence in prison; or
