THE WHISTLEBLOWER PROTECTION BILL, 2015

Explanatory Note

(These notes form no part of the Bill but are intended only to indicate its general purport)

The purpose of this Bill is to combat corruption and other wrongdoings by encouraging and facilitating disclosures of improper conduct in the public and private sector, to protect persons making those disclosures from detrimental action, to provide for the matters disclosed to be investigated and dealt with and to provide for other matters connected therewith.

Part I of the Bill would make certain preliminary provisions. Clause 1 would provide for the short title of the Act for which this is the Bill. Clause 2 would provide for the coming into force of the proposed Act on the date fixed by the President by Proclamation. Clause 3 would define certain terms used in the proposed Act. Clause 4 would provide for the application of the proposed Act to disclosures of improper conduct, irrespective of whether the conduct occurred before or after the coming into force of the proposed Act. By clause 5, the proposed Act would bind the State.

Part II of the Bill would contain provisions relating to the making of disclosures of improper conduct by whistleblowers. Division 1 of this Part would provide for protected disclosures. By clause 6, the employee of an organisation would be able to make a disclosure of improper conduct within the organisation, to a whistleblowing reporting officer within the organisation or a Whistleblowing Reports Unit of a designated authority listed in the Schedule. A disclosure would need to be based on the reasonable belief of the employee that improper conduct has occurred, is occurring or is likely to occur in the organisation. A disclosure made by a member of Parliament would not amount to a breach of privilege. Further, a provision in a contract of employment would be voidable in so far it purports to preclude the making of a disclosure.

Clause 7 would specify the conditions needed to be complied with for a disclosure to be regarded as a protected disclosure. Clause 8 would make it clear that the proposed Act does not authorise the disclosure of information protected by legal professional privilege and the disclosure of such information will not be protected disclosure. By clause 9, an anonymous disclosure would not be a protected disclosure.

Division 2 of Part II of the Bill would provide for internal disclosures. Clause 10 would require an employer to appoint whistleblowing reporting officers who would be responsible for receiving and processing internal disclosures of improper conduct within the employer's organisation, and for determining whether an internal disclosure should be referred for further investigation to a designated authority through its Whistleblowing Reports Unit. Clause 11 would require an employer to establish and publish within his organisation, internal procedures for dealing with disclosures.

Clause 12 would require whistleblowing officers to notify whistleblowers of the status of their respective disclosures, unless it is apparent that action has been taken to rectify or deal with the improper conduct disclosed. A whistleblowing reporting officer would be able to refer an internal disclosure to a designated authority through its Whistleblowing Reports Unit, for investigation if the internal disclosure is a protected disclosure and leads to the detection of a criminal offence or other breach of the law. A whistleblowing reporting officer will be prohibited from revealing the identity of a whistleblower without his prior consent in writing.

Division 3 of Part II of the Bill would provide for external disclosures. Clause 13 would require a designated authority to have a Whistleblowing Reports Unit consisting of a director and such other officers as are needed. A Whistleblowing Reports Unit will be responsible for receiving and processing disclosures from whistleblowing reporting officers pertaining to matters that fall within the areas of responsibility of its designated authority. Clause 14 would provide for the circumstances under which these external disclosures could be made to a Whistleblowing Reports Unit. Clause 15 will provide for the referral of protected disclosures by a Whistleblowing Reports Unit to another Whistleblowing Reports Unit.

Part III of the Bill provides for the protection of whistleblowers. Clause 16 would prohibit the taking of detrimental action against a whistleblower who has made a protected disclosure. Clause 17 would grant a whistleblower who makes a protected disclosure, immunity from criminal, civil and disciplinary proceedings. By clause 18 however, such immunity would not apply if the whistleblower was the perpetrator of, or an accomplice in, the improper conduct disclosed. Clause 19 would prohibit the disclosure of information which may lead to the identification of a whistleblower and restrict on the communication of the contents of a disclosure between a Whistleblowing Reports Unit and other departments within its designated authority. A designated authority would however, be able to share information about its investigations with its Whistleblowing Reports Units for the unit to determine whether it has any information relevant to an investigation. Clause 20 would provide for civil remedies where detrimental action is taken against the whistleblower.

Part IV of the Bill would provide in clause 21 for certain offences and in clause 22 for secrecy and confidentiality with respect to disclosures. Clause 23 would prohibit the obstructing of whistleblowing reporting personnel in the performance of their duties. Clause 24 would make it an offence to destroy, falsify or conceal a document relating to disclosure.

Clause 25 would make any provision in a contract of service or other agreement between an employer and employee void in so far as it purports to exclude any provision of this Act or to preclude an employee from making a protected disclosure.

Finally, clause 26 will enable the Minister to make regulations, subject to negative resolution of Parliament, to carry the proposed Act into effect.

BILL

AN ACT to combat corruption and other wrongdoings by encouraging and facilitating disclosures of improper conduct in the public and private sector, to protect persons making those disclosures from detrimental action, to regulate the receiving, investigating or otherwise dealing with disclosures of improper conduct and to provide for other matters connected therewith
